BROOKHART LOSES SENATE SEAT TO STECK

INCUMBENT IS OUSTED AFTER
BITTER FIGHTIowa Senator Loses Office by Four Votes to Democratic Rival

SERVED ONE-THIRD TERM

Brookhart Will Oppose Senator Cummins in Approaching Primary

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Daniel P. Steck, Democrat, is the senator from Iowa—not Smith W. Brookhart, Republican, insurgent opponent of administration policies and supporter of the LaFollette-Wheeler ticket in the last election.

The senate so decided late Monday by a margin of four votes, 16 Republicans joining 29 Democrats in supporting the election committee report recommending the unseating of Mr. Brookhart, who has held the place for one-third of the term, while nine Democrats, 31 Republicans and one Farmer Labor member opposed his action.

As one result of the outcome of the contest, which was bitterly fought through the elections committee and during the last week on the floor of the senate, the approaching Republican primary in Iowa will be the medium for a fight of exceptional interest, with Mr. Brookhart opposing the remaining Republican senator from that state, Albert B. Cummins, who has supported administration policies for the nomination.

The prospect of this fight already has stimulated the hope of Iowa Democrats that it will give them both senate seats by causing a split among the Republicans of the state. Mr. Brookhart's first effort to get into the senate was made in opposition to Senator Cummins in 1920 and resulted in defeat.

In Iowa, the Democrats were not alone in viewing the senate's action with satisfaction, since the leaders of the "regular" wing of the Republican party also hailed it as a victory for the state central committee, which for four years has fought the insurgent, and took the position in the last campaign, that he was no longer a Republican because of his denunciation of President Coolidge and alignment with the LaFollette ticket.

PUT TEXTILE STRIKERS
UNDER RIOT ACT RULES

Passaic, N. J.—(AP)—Strikers in the Garfield Textile mill district were under riot act regulations Tuesday, following a clash between peace officials and strikers Monday in which the officials used riot guns and clubs in dispersing the crowds. Seven strikers were arrested after 5,000 strikers who had marched to the Garfield gate of the Postmann and Huffman mill failed to comply with his orders to disperse.

Several persons were injured when the police charged the strikers. Among the strike leaders arrested were Robert W. Egan of the American Civil Liberties union, and Nancy Sadowsky, outstanding girl leader in the strike.

WOMAN IS MURDERED,
POLICE HUNT HUSBAND

North Bergen, N. J.—(AP)—Mrs. Jennie Hingst, 29, Tuesday was found dead in bed in her home here with a bullet hole in her left temple. Police are searching for her husband, Ernest Hingst, 35, who has disappeared.

Discovery of a note on the bedroom dresser signed by the husband addressed to his brother, John ended: "Let the town where I am found pay my funeral."

Chief Marcy said he considered Hingst's jealousy of another man the motive for what he believed to be a murder.

ZION PASTOR GOES TO WAUKEGAN WHEN
ROWS GET TOO HOT

Zion, Ill.—(AP)—The Rev. Thomas Nelson, pastor of an independent church here, who has been embroiled in many contentions with Wilbur Glenn Voliva general overseer of Zion during the last decade, is quitting his pulpit. Mr. Nelson, a former supporter of Voliva, announced he is going to Waukegan, Ill., to conduct a tabernacle.

When Mr. Nelson broke away from Voliva and organized his own church Voliva publicly termed him a "Tom Out, a discredited windbag and a 'batherside'."

The preacher alleged libel, brought suit against the overseer and obtained a verdict of one cent and costs.

"I am not quitting because Voliva has licked me," the preacher told his congregation Monday night. "Opportunity for service appears to be greater in Waukegan."

RECEIVERS OF
ST. PAUL ROAD
END EVIDENCECase Is Receded to April 26
When Bond Holders Will Present Testimony

Chicago, Ill.—(AP)—Receivers of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad completed Tuesday their submission of evidence in Federal court to support their petition for permission to pay $400,000 in interest on bonds of the road's two subsidiaries.

Judge Wilkerson then recessed the case to April 26, when the junior bond holders will present evidence in opposition to payment of the interest on the securities of the Chicago, Terre Haute and South Eastern railroad and the Chicago, Milwaukee and Gary road, which they contend were unwisely acquired by the St. Paul road.

H. E. Pyram, former president of the St. Paul road, and now one of its three receivers, told Tuesday why the Gary road was purchased.

Sol Levinson, an attorney active in the reorganization some 60 years ago of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, testified that there was no connection between the reorganization of the C. &amp; E. I. road and the St. Paul acquisition of the Terre Haute. Pyram said acquisition of the Gary road enabled the St. Paul system to move great amounts of freight from eastern railroads westward around Chicago, instead of through the crowded freight terminals of the city.

The Gary lines also complimented the Terre Haute system, he said, saved 16 miles over favorable grades in movement of freight shipments past Chicago and enabled the parent road to profit at Dekalb and Rockfield, Ill., by moving freight from industrial plants at those points.

SARGENT RAPS
CRITICS OF DRY
LAW IN SPEECHSays Public Officials Have
No Right to Find Fault
With Law

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—A broadside against both violators and critics of the prohibition law was delivered Tuesday by Attorney General Sargent.

Speaking before the women's national committee for law enforcement he declared purchasers of liquor morally guilty of bribery, warned government prosecutors not to criticize the law, appealed to the women to ostracize those who serve liquor in the home, and promised those who foster violations of the statutes that the hand of punishment shall fall as often and as heavily as those now charged with the duties of administering the law can cause it to fall.

"The real source of the embarrassment to the enforcement of the law," he said, "is not that the law interferes with personal liberty, but that so many well intentioned persons, thoughtlessly, or following some process of unsound reasoning, join hands with those who violate the law."

"There is no right or personal liberty to perpetuate an institution which the law condemns. That the liquor traffic shall be exterminated is established by solemn resolution of the electorate."

Without mentioning names, Mr. Sargent said that so long as any man holds his place as a public prosecutor, he "ought not take the position that the law as it is ought not be the law."

"If we got about declaring the law ought to be changed so that the acts which are offenses against the law will not be offenses," he said, "we weaken our causes in the minds of the tribunals before whom we must try them."

Insisting that the government is successfully fighting the liquor traffic and can enforce the prohibition law, the Attorney General asked for the help of the women.

"You can see it all," he said, "that at no social event in your charge shall your tables be disgraced by liquor. You can make serving of unlawful liquor at social functions of your acquaintances so unpopular it will cease."

In the Republican senatorial battle Illinois is choosing between Senator William E. McKinley and Frank Smith, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, the latter an enemy of the world court.

In the Democratic senatorial contest appeared the names of George E. Bregman, veteran party leader and foe of the Volstead act, former Congressman James McDermott and James O. Monroe. None has made an active campaign.

One of the most bitter of the Republican congressional contests involved Representative Fred A. Rutten and Mrs. Bertha Bauer, wealthy Chicago society women, each a proponent of prohibition legislation.

Plans to deputize 1,000 special government agents to prevent fraud and disorder at the voting booths were called off after Attorney Sargent had revoked his consent to the move on the ground the government had no right to interfere in a state election. Four thousand state and city officers, however, were mobilized in Cook county for election duty.

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Representative Aguirre, progressive socialist New York said Tuesday he had been advised by Attorney Sargent that 330 cases of liquor held under court order by the United States Marshal at Indianapolis, Ind., had disappeared and that the department of justice is investigating the matter.

U. S. More Friendly As Mexico Explains Land LawBY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1926, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—Relations with Mexico may be said from this date forward to be on a much more satisfactory basis so far as property rights are concerned than they have been in many years. Publication of the exchange of notes between the two governments reveals that at last the tangled question of retroactive laws and the rights of foreigners in Mexico has been reduced to a formula which does not conflict with international law.

The stumbling block to a solution was really the contention of Mexico that every foreigner should sign a waiver in advance agreeing that as he acquires property he shall give up his right of appeal to his own government. Several notes were exchanged on this point during which correspondence Mexico pointed out that some states of the United States forbid the ownership of land by aliens and that Mexico simply requires that the right of diplomatic appeal be forfeited.

Although there is much discussion of this point in the notes it really has not been explicitly settled. The inference remains that if a foreigner becomes a member of a Mexican corporation he must regard himself as on the same basis as Mexican citizens.

As for the regulations which have been drawn up to give effect to the land and petroleum laws, these are admittedly more satisfactory than the text of the legislation itself. The publicity given to the notes removes all the doubts and mystery that has existed for weeks and gives both sides a foundation for future debate in case the regulations are violated in either letter or spirit.

POLICE SCOUR COUNTRY FOR MISSING GIRLMates Tell Teacher 6-year-old Child Was Taken into AutomobileBULLETIN
A reward of $500 for the safe return of Frances Webb was offered by James Webb, her father, late Tuesday afternoon.No clues to the kidnapping were available at 2:45, Mr. Webb said.Searching parties are scouring the shores of Lake Winnebago and roads in Winnebago county for Frances Webb, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
James Webb, 122 First st., Neenah, who is thought to have been kidnapped while on her way to Roosevelt school at Neenah. The little girl has not been seen by her parents since she left her home for the schoolhouse which was a block away.A tall, dark complexioned man is believed responsible for the disappearance of the girl. He induced her to enter his car, which was either a Ford or Chevrolet coupe, just before she reached the schoolhouse, according to information which police were able to secure from her schoolmates.MATES SAW HER She was walking alone at the time of the kidnapping, according to the police, but she was close enough to the school for a number of her companions to see her.A description of the girl, as well as of the alleged abductor, is being broadcast from Wisconsin radio stations, which were notified of the kidnapping
by Mayor George E. Sande and Chief of Police James Watts.The first of the child's parents knew of their daughter's disappearance was when she did not return home at noon.
The parents then called the teacher and learned the girl had not been in school in the morning. The teacher immediately questioned her pupils and they eagerly told her what they had seen.The girl was dressed in a green coat trimmed with fur. She wore a stocking cap and scarf, high brown shoes and tan stockings.The man believed to have induced the girl to enter his car is tall and thin, with dark skin and hair. He wore a dark overcoat and a dark slouch hat.Police and volunteer searching parties are combing the woods and outcrops along Lake Winnebago in the belief that the abductor may have taken the girl there. Word also has been sent to police departments in surrounding cities and authorities are keeping a strict watch of all roads.Mrs. Webb is the daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. M. E. Barnett of Neenah.
Appleton police were informed of the kidnaping shortly after noon and a number of men immediately were assigned to watch roads and to conduct a search for the missing child.Well Known Preacher, disease for some time. He was born in Sheboygan, June 22, 1859. Luecke published 3 books "A History of the

Col. Alexander S. Williams' own conversion of the catastrophic collateral party which brought down upon him the official wrath of Belg. General Smedley D. Butler will be told at Tuesday's session of the colonel's court martial on a charge of appearing intoxicated in the public rooms of Coronado hotel. The prosecution's case against the suspended commander of the fourth regiment of marines culminated late Monday in the spectacular testimony of General Butler, arch-enemy of post-Volstead drinking and former leader of the forces of reform in Philadelphia.
From his employment in the witness chair the general raked the defendant colonel's conduct as an officer and a gentleman with accusations that echoed throughout thecourtroom in a crescendo of cutting denunciation.On the night of March 6, last,
after the one time chief of Philadelphia police on the night that he was a guest of honor in Col. Williams' Coronado home—this colonel of marines was guilty of the following:He was loquacious; he staggered;
he stared vacantly through bloodshot eyes; he was intoxicated; he was drunk; he was "full"; and last and most horrible to relate of a colonel of marines, he giggled.Butler's testimony shattered the composure of what started out to be a rather quiet court martial. Three witnesses previously had been examined by the prosecution, all of them guests of Colonel Williams on the eventful night and all of them evidently reluctant to tell the world he had been drinking.LAFOLLETTE COMES HOME TO PLAN FOR COMING CAMPAIGNMadison — (AP)—A special dispatch to the Capital Times Tuesday says Senator Robert M. La-Follette, Jr. will leave Washington Tuesday evening to arrive here Wednesday night on his first visit home since taking the oath
in the senate.The newspaper says he is returning to discuss plans for the coming campaign in Wisconsin.
The special session of the legislature will afford him an opportunity to meet representatives of the different parts of the state."It is expected that Herman L.
Ekern will soon announce his candidacy for governor and the campaign will then be in full swing," says the newspaper.Washington — (AP)—Three more witnesses called by the wets Tuesday told the senate prohibition committee that moral conditions had grown worse
under the Volstead act.One of them, Father Francis Kasazum of Sugar, Knott, Pa., painted for the committee a graphic picture of wide open saloons, wild carousal by young people, drunkenness in homes, and intoxication among high school children in the anthracite towns of Pennsylvania. Police statistics from many cities were submitted by Stanley Shirk, of the Moderation league, to support his assertion that arrests for drunkenness, particularly among automobile drivers, had taken an enormous upward swing there since the dry regime came in. Mr. Shirk said that perhaps the most curious result of national bone dryness is the remarkable increase in the number of drunken drivers."In New York city the arrests from 1916 to 1919 averaged 161. In 1920, the first year dry, rose to 334, dropped slightly in 1921, and then skyrocketed to 944 in 1924.""In Chicago arrests increased 440 per cent. Washington shows an increase of 1,082 per cent; and in Milwaukee the rise was 254 per cent."The witness of the day, Mrs.
Viola Anglim, deputy chief probation officer in the New York family court, declared cases before that court had increased since prohibition because the wives and children are suffering more than before."The prohibition officers under my direction tell me that in their districts you can find 150 to 200 stills," she said. "These are not only operated in cigar and other stores, but also in the home.""Tenements are the homes of stills;
you open a door and instantly get a whiff of the stuff they make. The children are there and must know all about it." She added that while "the material conditions of the wives and children had improved under prohibition, "moral condition" had not.WASHINGTON, D. C.—(AP)—The Senate prohibition hearing got back to the wet side of the question Tuesday after devoting two hours to the opening of the dry case by a group of women representing church, temperance, civic and other organizations who are here attending the meeting of the Women's National committee for law enforcement.The wets are expected to conclude presentation of their testimony against the Volstead act and in favor of liberalization before the end of the week, after which the prohibition advocates will have 22 hours to place their opposing contentions in the record. Although the Senate committee planned to complete the hearing in two weeks, it was unable to give the modificationists more than 13 hours of their allotted 24 hours last week, and it appears likely that the sessions will continue through next week.The law enforcement conference went into its concluding sessions
Tuesday with Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of liquor case, as one of the principal speakers. Like Assistant Sergeant Anglim, chief enforcement officer of the treasury, she urged in her prepared address that the women work to build up the sentiment in favor of prohibition observance.Mr. Andrews called for the day when hostesses "will feel apologetic for serving cocktails, rather than for not serving them," and Mrs. Wal-standards on the foundation of law observance.COMBINE PROBE WARD'S

forces of reform in Philadelphia.
From his employment in the wit-

composure of what started out to be
a rather quiet court martial. Three

APPLETON JOINS OBSERVANCE OF FRATERNAL DAY

Ten Million Americans Are Members of Fraternal Insurance Societies

Appleton fraternal organizations will observe National Fraternal day on Friday, April 30. This day will be observed all over the nation and is for the purpose of creating greater interest in fraternalism.

The movement has been endorsed by the executive committee of the National Fraternal Congress of America which comprises in its membership nearly all the fraternal benefit societies in North America. The committee took final action on the project at a meeting in Chicago, February 23.

In Appleton, as in many cities, members of the various fraternal societies will hold a joint meeting and banquet. The exact nature of the affair here has not been decided. It is the purpose of the various local fraternal societies to get together and hold the type of function that will be most popular with the majority.

One of the cardinal purposes of the event is to bring to public attention the altruistic enterprise which represents the fraternal insurance movement of North America.

10 MILLION MEMBERS Few persons are aware of the strength, both numerically and financially, of the fraternal insurance societies of North America. Member societies of the National Fraternal Congress have a combined membership of over ten million and represent insurance in force of over $5,000,000,000. They have local organizations of men or women in every city, village and hamlet of the country with few exceptions, while in most cities and towns there are several fraternal benefit societies.

Particular discussion will be devoted to fraternal insurance at the meeting in Appleton to observe National Fraternal day. The great importance of insurance by many fraternal groups will be emphasized. Sanatoria and hospitals have been built by some orders, others maintain free homes for aged and indigent members, operate summer camps for recreation, care of orphan members in homes or institutions, give health service to members, endow hospital beds, provide educational opportunities for deserving young people, give maternity benefits, loan money to members to purchase homes, help beneficiaries of members to obtain safe investment or insurance funds and embark upon numerous other activities which represent the best of fraternalism.

It was indicated in Appleton fraternal circles that there was a possibility that the observance of National Fraternal day might have to be done on some day other than April 30, should some unforeseen contingency arise and make that date impractical. But in the event it does, it was said some date as near to April 30 as can be arranged will be set in its stead.

COLLEGE GLEE CLUB SINGS HOME CONCERT APR. 20

Forty Lawrence Singers Will Present Annual Program in College Chapel

The men's glee club of Lawrence college is to present its home concert on April 20 at Lawrence Memorial chapel. The club is under the direction of Dean Carl J. Waterman and has taken two trips, the February tour which took the boys to Fond du Lac, Feb. 20 and 21; Waterloo, Feb. 22; Madison, Feb. 23; Janesville, Feb. 24; Elkton, Feb. 25; Kenosha, Feb. 26; and Racine Feb. 27; and the second tour included concerts at Green Bay, March 11 and at Menominee, Mich., March 12.

The club carries forty men as has been the custom during the past few years. Wenzel Albrecht, Keweenaw, again accompanies the club as violinist; Eric Jorgensen, Racine, is the exclusive soloist, a new feature. Jorgensen is an artistic and accomplished singer having received intensive training in California. Ellsworth Stiles, Marinette, who is manager of the club and Marshall Hulbert, Glenbeulah, both four year men on the club, are the baritone soloists this year. James Archie, Waterville, and Harry Schneider, Janesville, tenor soloists, present a musical specialty. The accompaniments are in charge of La Vahn Maesch, Appleton, a veteran of three years' experience, and Everett Roebush, Appleton.

Novelty and variety characterize this year's glee club program. Several numbers of a distinctly humorous trend will lead a pleasing contrast to the more formal male choruses. The outstanding numbers of this season's program are: "Song of the Marching Men" by Prothro, "Pilgrims chorus" by Wagner, "Route Marchin'" a characteristic Kipling poem set to music by Stock; a weird and harmonious "Chain Gang Song" by Howe, and a typical northern "Viking Song" by Taylor-Colegate.

The personnel of the club which includes singers from five states follows: First tenors: Karl Bayer, Merrill Oswald Gunderson, La Crosse; Fred Havens, Long Beach, Calif.; Ralph Leonardson, Marinette; Wesley Perry, Sheboygan; Gordon Schiffer, Appleton; John Owen, Stevens Point; Ronald Van Winter, Viola; and Melvin Burns, Elgin, Ill.

Second tenors: James Archie, Waterville; Gordon Bush, Augusta; Kenneth Emmons, Waupesa; Franklin Kottick, Appleton; Harry Seidmore, Janesville; David Scouler, Oshkosh; Diehl Snyder, Parabeo; Alvin Zwerg, Appleton.

First basses: Russell Brinson, Sheridan, Ill.; George Broughton, Stuart, N. Y.; Norman Greenwood, Neenah; Earnest Gribble, Ironwood, Mich.; Marshall Hulbert, Glenbeulah; Milton Leadhelm, Eau Claire; William Nelson, Green Bay; Austin Schraeder, Markesan; Elsworth Stiles, Marinette; Leslie Wright, Rockford, Ill.; Lael Westberg, Marinette and Harry Snyder, Farmington, Minn.

14 CASES ON DOCKET OF PROBATE COURT

A special term of Outagamie county court started Tuesday with fourteen cases on the docket. The cases are as follows: Hearing on proof of will in the estate of Will Wright, David Bender, Ralph V. Lane, J. Bailey, and in the estate of dis. Edwin Boettcher, T. E. Oranson, Wenzel Helzer, having preferred and John Goodrich. Plans for a pro. claims in the estates of Charles S. gram at the next regular meeting Dickinson, George W. Roebush, were made and a general discussion and Augusta Klain. Hearing claims on club principles and rules followed, in the estates of Adeline DeLong, an attempt will be made to have a Kiwanis Day and dollar night. Hearing joint charter meeting with the Green Bay club at which time the state, William Schulz, Arline Harjes, Doty secretary of the organization at Milwaukee, will present both charters. The day group was organized a few weeks ago but had not received its charter.

ONLY TWO SCHOOLS HAVE GOOD DEPOSITS

Only two city schools, Columbus and Franklin, reported the per cent. deposits in bank deposits for the week ending April 6, as compared with four 100 per cent schools the previous week. The total number of deposits was 1,112, a decrease of 141 from the week before when there were 1,253.

Deposits for the week totaled $150.56 or $75.53 less than the previous week. The percentage of deposits was 53 as compared with 58 for the week before. There were 63 withdrawals for a total of $241.55.

INVITE VETERAN PHONE USERS TO BIRTHDAY PARTY

Pioneer Subscribers to Be Guests at Luncheon on 47th Anniversary of Local Exchange

A reunion of pioneer users of telephone service in Appleton will be held at the Wisconsin Telephone exchange building N. Superior-st. on Thursday afternoon, April 15, to mark the forty-seventh anniversary of the opening of an exchange here. A study of early telephone records was made by H. M. Fellows, manager of the local exchange, and a complete list of pioneer subscribers has been compiled. These early users of phone service have been invited to be the guests of Mr. Fellows at an informal luncheon and reunion at the exchange building Thursday afternoon to recount old experiences and to note the vast improvements that have been made in the art of communication.

The first telephone exchange at Appleton was opened about April 15, 1887. For several years prior to that time the telephone had been in use here on private lines. In fact, Appleton is generally credited with having the first telephone in service in Wisconsin. In 1877 a telephone line was strung from what was then the Benoit Drug Store to Dr. J. T. Roeve's office and to the residence of Louis Benoit and Dr. A. H. Levings. Alfred Galpin was instrumental in establishing this first telephone line and his nephew, Eric R. Galpin, has some very interesting records of early day telephone history and copies of correspondence with Alexander Graham Bell and others which were written shortly after the invention of the telephone. Through the courtesy of Eric Galpin, many of these interesting documents have been made a part of the Bell System Historical library at New York.

FIRST EXCHANGE The first telephone exchange was located in the drug store at 775 College-ave. Miss Kate E. Heolien who later married E. W. King was the first operator and became manager after the death of Mr. Benoit in 1881.

In 1883 the telephone exchange was removed from the drug store to more commodious quarters on the second floor of the same building in order to provide for the increasing business of the exchange. It remained in these quarters for several years and then was moved to 816 College-ave. In order to provide for an increased number of operators and other employees made necessary by the expansion of the business.

In July, 1912, the telephone exchange moved into its own building which had been constructed at the corner of Washington and Superior-sts.

LEADER IN STATE

Appleton was not only one of the first cities to adopt the telephone and start an exchange, but has kept in the front ranks of telephone development. It is the district headquarters for this section of the state. The local switchboards provide service to 6202 telephone stations, and long distance lines radiate from Appleton in every direction and make it possible for a local telephone to be connected to any of nearly seventeen million telephones located in 72,000 communities in the United States.

Some interesting facts about Appleton's early telephone history will no doubt be recounted when the surviving original subscribers hold their reunion on Thursday afternoon.

Luncheon, moving picture, and some short talks are part of the program which Mr. Fellows has arranged for the entertainment of the veteran subscribers.

S. CHERRY-ST PAVING STARTS ABOUT MAY 1

Paving of S. Cherry-st from the end of the Cherry-st bridge to the Winnebago-co line will be started about May 1, according to Garvey and Weyenberg, contractors, who were awarded the contract.

The contract for paving S. Cherry-st from the county line to Highway 15 will be awarded by the state highway commission before the last of the week and it is expected that work will be started from both ends of the road. The work will probably be finished about the middle of June.

Followed by a short business session, routine business occupied the evening for the Cardinal and Newsies club and the Vocational "Y" group worked on a new constitution.

The vocational boys outlined the constitution and a committee of five was appointed to draw it up and present it at the next meeting. The adoption of the new constitution will make the club eligible for membership in the National Employed Boys Brotherhood.

LIBRARY LOANS 12,140 BOOKS IN MONTH OF MARCH

Demand for Fiction Far Exceeds Call for Other Books Here

A total of 12,140 books were loaned at the free public library in March according to the monthly circulation report. Of this number 7,661 were fiction, 4,115 were non-fiction volumes, 213 were unbound periodicals and 153 were foreign books. Out of the total number of books loaned 6,214 were taken from the adult department and 5,896 from the children's department. In the adult department 1,716 non-fiction and 4,196 fiction volumes were loaned while in the children's department 2,399 non-fiction volumes and 3,418 fiction books were drawn out.

The number of borrowers at the beginning of the month was 7,432 and at the end of the month it was 7,459 a gain of only 27. The number of borrowers at the end of the month showed a loss of 19 in the adult department but a gain of 46 in the children's department. New registrations during the month totaled 271 and the number of registrations cancelled was 211. There were 23,198 volumes in the library at the beginning of March and 23,213 at the end, a gain of 15. One hundred and sixty-four books were added and 149 were withdrawn.

Not Hard To Win One Of 6 Prizes In Players' Contest

Cash prizes totalling $100 are awaiting six people who send in the most correct answers with the best set of slogans to accompany them in the Appleton Post-Crescent-Elite theater Masked Movie Player contest which opens Monday, April 19. Will you be one of those six people? The winner of first place will get $50 and the person placing second will receive $25. There will be four other prizes.

On the Elite screen you will witness a clever novelty short subject revealing a small group of M-G-M stars, all of whom you think now that you would know in a crowd of thousands.

But each one will be wearing a mask. And—"Behind the Mask"—Who? A small domino strip across the eyes does not conceal much, but it's a tricky little thing that forces you at times to put on your guessing cap. Then too, you are supposed to give a slogan to each star as fast as you guess them. For instance, when you decide that the masked player is Norma Shearer, you may give her

H. S. TEACHER TALKS TO COLLEGE PRESS WRITERS

Miss Evelyn Broderick, instructor in English at Appleton High school and faculty advisor of the Talisman will speak to the Lawrence College Press Club at 8:30 Thursday night. Miss Broderick will point out how experience on a college paper can help one as advisor on a high school paper.

Miss Broderick, graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1923, and after her graduation worked as a reporter and copy reader on the Minnesota Daily at Minneapolis. Before accepting the position as instructor of English at Appleton High school, she was assisted in the English department at the University of Minnesota.

DEBATE PROHIBITION AT KIWANIS MEETING

Four Lawrence college debaters will argue the question, "Resolved that the Eighteenth amendment be repealed" at the Kiwanis club luncheon Wednesday noon at the Conway hotel. After the speakers have argued the merits of the case the winning side will be decided by a majority vote of the club members.

The affirmative will be argued by Dan Hardt and Gordon Clapp and the negative will be upheld by George Christensen and Win Bird. All these men are veteran debaters, having been on the college teams for several years. They are thoroughly familiar with the question as it was used in their intercollegiate debates this season. A. L. Franke, Lawrence debate coach, assisted Dr. Edward F. Mielke, chairman of the club program committee, in arranging the speaking tilt.

LABOR'S GRIEVANCE AGAINST VOLSTEAD

Organized labor has appeared before the senate sub-committee investigating the effects of prohibition, and has asked for a restoration of beer and light wines. The spokesmen for labor were the officers of the American Federation. We should say that their representations are correct, that a majority of wage-workers favor a return of beer and light wines.

Labor has two indictments against the Volstead act. One is that it has deprived it of mild, stimulating beverages which it feels is an unwarranted interference with its liberties. The other is that in its practical effects the Volstead act has been a rank discrimination against labor and in favor of wealth. The latter has been able to keep its cellar stocked with fairly good brands of liquor and every other kind of intoxicant taste might demand. Labor has been left to the tender mercies of inferior and poisonous booze in the hands of unscrupulous bootleggers, along with vicious moonshine.

Economically prohibition has been of benefit to labor, which has made greater strides toward home earning and accumulation of savings under the eighteenth amendment than ever before. It has enjoyed better homes, better food and more conveniences. But these gains are apt to be pushed into the background when labor considers the fact that many of its employers who stress these improvements are the worst offenders against prohibition and indulge in alcoholic beverages to their heart's content. Class favoritism and social and moral tyranny are intolerable, even though to submit might mean more meat in the larder and more dollars in the bank. There is the principle of equality before and under the law, and it has a stronger appeal than material betterment.

Labor naturally resents a law which permits the rich to do as they please and which steps on its toes everytime it attempts to indulge a desire or weakness that the wealthy satiate every day. Therefore, labor has a just grievance against the Volstead act. If it had been possible to enforce it drastically to the letter, and with impartiality, labor might accept the interference with its personal liberty with better grace, and on the ground that it was for the social, moral, political and economic welfare of all. Labor might give up its glass of beer if the rich man were forced to give up his highball and champagne, but it cannot see the justice of withholding in the one case and permitting in the other.

SUPPORTING A PRINCIPLE

President Coolidge, in greeting the women who assembled in Washington in support of the drys' demand for retention of the Volstead act reiterated a former statement he made on the subject by saying: "The law represents the voice of the people. Beyond it and supporting it is a divine sanction. Enforcement of law and obedience to law, by the very nature of our institutions, are not matters of choice in this republic, but the expression of a moral requirement of living in accordance with the truth. They are clothed with a spiritual significance, in which is revealed the life or the death of the American ideal of self-government."

What the president here says is a true statement of political principle. The dilemma with regard to prohibition as affected by this principle is that millions of citizens, possibly a majority, refuse obedience to a law that the government cannot or will not enforce. It may not be, but we think it is useless to preach to them about duty and good citizenship. We have had a sufficient test to show that innumerable citizens are, and are likely to continue, deaf to this appeal. They simply refuse to recognize the right of government to pronounce as wrong something which they do not believe to be inherently wrong. If they were forced in their conscience to admit that the law is right, then they would be compelled by their conscience to obey it.

The president takes the only position he can take, and it is an eminently sound position. Respect for law is essential to the preservation of the nation in the end. Enforcement of and obedience to law are, as he says, vital to the life of a nation of the "American ideal of self-government." Still, this does not answer the question raised by a situation in which the people simply will not volunteer obedience and the government is powerless to compel obedience. It is comprehensible that in such a predicament it might be better to sacrifice the law to preserve the principle. We should like to know what the president really thinks on that proposition.

THE COST OF RULERS

It is reported that the German people are finding presidents far less expensive than kaisers. President von Hindenburg's salary has been increased and he has been voted an allowance for official expense. Yet the total amount paid to him by Germany is trivial when compared with what it cost to support William Hohenzollern in the style he expected.

Lately this difference in upkeep of government heads has been called to general attention by the former emperor's demands for a "settlement." The Germans aren't keen about paying him huge sums of money now, and the discussion of such sums recalls to mind the costliness of monarchs.

It is a wholesome sort of reminder. Right now it may help to discourage schemers who have been hoping to get one or another Hohenzollern back on a German throne.

A MOSLEM LEAGUE

There is talk now of a "Moslem League of Nations" uniting the 220,000,000 Mohammedans of the world. The project, as set forth in some of the foreign dispatches, seems rather disturbing. An Islamic congress is to meet at Cairo in May to elect a new caliph of the Mohammedan faith. There will be an effort made there to call a subsequent assembly at Mecca, representing the whole Moslem world. If the plan of Sheikh Abul Azaim is carried out, it means an attempt to organize the caliphate into a sort of super-government for all Moslem states. "The consequences of this plan would be incalculable," says a British observer. "For it would establish a Moslem League of Nations more coherent and effective than its prototype at Geneva."

Moslem scares are periodical and eternal, and it is seldom that anything comes of them. For years now there has been talk of a new "Holy War" against christianism, and christianism still seems as safe as ever, menaced only by its own shortcomings. It would be "some job," assuredly, to unite the 220,000,000 Moslems of the world for joint action, political or military. There are 1,000,000 of them in Europe, 140,000,000 in Asia, 15,000,000 in Africa and 30,000,000 in Oceania. The various units have all fallen apart, finding cooperation impossible in recent times. The largest continental block, the Asiatic Moslems, are divided among Turkey, Arabia, India and other countries, with most of them in India, which is not a nation at all. Turkey and the Arabian countries are always quarreling. Mustapha Kemal, the ablest leading Moslem, cares nothing for religion. The religious followers of the prophet elsewhere care nothing for him.

If the fiery sheiks of the desert, however, can drum up some sort of Moslem League of Nations, it might really be a good thing in some ways. It would not kill off the League at Geneva. A little healthful competition might impel the Geneva organization to get together and develop more efficiency in behalf of international christianism.

RESISTANCE
This is a talk for doctors and other teachers who purport to teach hygiene. Well, misinformed lay readers will find it difficult to follow the argument, but if they will kindly bear in mind that it is out beyond their depth and that it is not a controversy in which we are engaged, but simply an effort to clarify a situation which is dangerously confused, we shall finish all in good spirit.

Every old fogey—there we go, first thing—well, to be nice and dignified, every unformed doctor or hygiene teacher who still upholds the superstition that chilling, cold, drafts, wet feet and the like cause or predispose to certain diseases, refers to "lowered resistance" when he endeavors to explain the objection. For the sake of argument he is usually ready to concede that microbes, germs, organisms, as he variously terms them, are no doubt essential, but still, he insists, (when he is speaking of some vague, indefinite disease, not, of course, when he is speaking of diphtheria, say) the germs or organisms are not likely to lay the victim low unless the victim's resistance happens to be lowered by some trifling exposure at the fatal moment when the germs happen along.

Now in order to lend their fancy of "lowered resistance" the substance of the argument is to save the face of the unregenerate doctor or teacher, it is necessary to deprecate the infectious character of the disease (that is, the bacterial origin), and this the reactionary health authorities do without regard for the general consequences. They elect to side with the ignorant charlatans who assure prospects that "the germ theory" is all bosh and that Pasteur was a joke. They give aid and comfort to the enemy of health.

I challenge any health authority who dares to uphold the "exposure" myth today to name or identify any disease condition or entity which has any fancied relation with exposure to cold or wet and which is not conveyed by droplet or spray infection usually and ordinarily.

I challenge Dr. Louis I. Harris, health commissioner of New York City and Dr. Herman M. Bunde, health commissioner of Chicago—both of whom still uphold the eighteenth century superstition of catching cold—to name or identify any disease entity which is so caused. I challenge them to cite any proof or even clinical evidence or ordinary observation which warrants the assumption that cold or wet or any such "exposure" is more to any recognized disease entity than is diphtheria. And if no such evidence is available I challenge the health authorities who still believe in "colds" to identify, if they can, their enigmatic teachings about the nature and prevention of the respiratory infections.

"Resistance" simply doesn't exist. Immunity is the idea vaguely connoted by the common misuse of that term. Immunity is a state which, so far as we know scientifically, is invariably the result of infection. We'll try to clear this up later, but here I desire to say simply that any doctor who talks of "lowered resistance" is talking through his hat, indulging his imagination.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Cleaning Cream
I would greatly appreciate it if you will have printed a formula for cleaning cream or cold cream. Soap irritates my skin, which is inclined to be dry and harsh. (Mrs. H. V. C.)

Answer—Ointment of rose water, commonly called cold cream, is the most satisfactory article. I think, and women might well use it instead of soap for cleansing the face particularly, though not young women whose skin is usually oily enough or even too oily; plain soap and water is the thing when the skin is oily, and no creams or other cosmetics. The formula for cold cream is given in the Pharmacopoeia, which is the official standard formula for every drug store or pharmacy. It is there called Unguentum Aquae Rosae. Only a pharmacist can make a good cold cream. No ready made stuff can take the place of the freshly made cold cream. Let your druggist make up a reasonable quantity, say four ounces of ointment of rose water compounded according to the official formula, is regular and in order in a pharmacy, though likely to be made to feel irregular and out of order in a hutchery.

Q. Hod does the fleet keep in touch with daily news while at sea during manuevering? F. J. H.

A. By daily news bulletins sent to the commander-in-chief on a high frequency schedule at 6 o'clock each evening by the office of naval communications through Bellevue laboratories.

Q. By whom is New Jersey represented in Statuary hall? J. O. G.

A. In Statuary hall in the capitol in Washington each state of the union is permitted to contribute two statues of its favorite sons or daughters. New Jersey is represented in Statuary hall by Philip Kearney and Richard Stockton.

Q. What is the percentage of iodine in one gallon of water? J. H. D.

A. The percentage of iodine in water varies over the world. Studies have been made in Michigan and New Jersey which have shown that from none up to 90 parts per billion of iodine are in water. This would vary with the depth of the well and with different waters; 17 parts per billion would be one grain in 1000 gallons of water. There is not enough known about this to say where the percentage is highest. In a general way it is higher along the Eastern coast and in the Southern and Southwestern States.

Q. How many pieces of mail go through the post office in a year? Y. P.

A. In 1923 the Post Office department found that 23,054,331,533 pieces of mail were handled during that year. Accurate statistics have not been compiled, but it has been estimated that 26,094,000,000 pieces of mail were handled during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1925.

Q. Did the Romans wear shoes? V. G.

A. Shoes were commonly worn by the Romans. Senators wore a special style reaching to the middle of the leg, colored red, and bearing a silver crescent just above the foot. Men of Rome usually wore black shoes, except in the case of one holding public office. In this case the shoes usually were red.

Q. What ingredient added to salad dressing will prevent its getting rancid? A. B. C.

A. The Bureau of Chemistry says that no ingredient is added to salad dressing to prevent it from becoming rancid. The salad dressing must be kept in a cool and dark place.

Q. Do bees think? H. C.

A. Among the higher invertebrates the ants, bees, wasps, and other social insects there is a complex behavior which has been interpreted by some to imply a consciousness comparable with that of man. Others have emphasized the instinctive character of the activities of these animals and have been content to consider the higher insects as mere automata. The insects represent a line of development divergent from the course of evolution that has culminated in man, and it is difficult to compare the insect mind with human consciousness. THE CONTAGION OF TITLES
Have you noticed how often these days writers use the word "black" in titling their books? For instance, I found three books that had that word in the title in a single short list of books I happened to pick up at random: "Black Platings," by Kathleen Norris; "Black Laughter," by J. P. Powells, and "The Black Stamp," by

Will Scott. And in the same list was Sherwood Anderson's "Dark Laughter." Very probably he would have called it "Black Laughter," if Lee-wellyn Powells had not beat him to it.

Why the word "black" now when, a few years ago you might have searched any book from beginning to end without once running across the word? I don't know for certain but I suspect that it is all due to Gertrude Atherton's "Black Oxen." That book of a couple of years ago won widespread notoriety for other reasons than literary ones because as a work of art it was somewhat negligible. But its title was very striking. It is the kind of title that bites into the mind and that refuses to be forgotten. Any writer who can find a title like that has won about three-fourths of the battle for popularity.

"BLACK" IS STRIKING
I suspect that subconsciously the word "black" has been the mind of fiction writers while the book was having its run. That is, they caught the disease at that time without knowing it and now after about two years the "period of incubation," as the doctors say, has passed and the disease breaks out in a crop of "black" titles. It is likely that there will be many other "black" titles from now on until the epidemic has spent itself and the writers catch the contagion of some other word.

At one time the word "road" had a big run in titles. While it was epidemic such a title as "Road to the World" was almost inevitable. A novelist with that kind of a book in his system was almost as sure to call it "Road to the World" as an unevangelized person is to catch small pox if he walks into an epidemic. Today the same book might not be called by that title at all.

In the days of "The Board Highway," about 15 years ago, that word "highway" was extremely likely to appear in a title, and at another time the word "street" was likely to occur, as witness "The Street Called Straight," "The Street of the Seven Stars," "Curiously 'Main Street' was, so far as I can remember, not followed by an epidemic of "street" titles.

It is not strange that there should be contagion in titles. A manufacturer making a success of a given article is certain of imitators. A striking trademark is always copied as closely as the law will allow. And a title is a book's trademark, its most important advertisement. When an author senses that "black" will make the public pay attention it is very natural that he should catch about for a title with that word in it. And came with "street" and "road" and say any other word that attracts attention at the moment. Probably this is not done consciously but it works the same way as if it was.

TITLE IS DIFFICULT
And contrary to general opinion finding a title for a book is much harder than any other piece of work connected with it. It is likely that the average writer seldom finds what he considers a perfect title. He has to be satisfied with what he can do because his mind will not hit on the perfect title. One of the comparatively few instances of the perfect title that I can recall is "Main Street." But more often than not a title is a makeshift after a writer has rejected perhaps 25 that are still worse.

And if you consider the problem this is not strange. There lies before you a mass of manuscript of 100,000 words and it is your problem to compress the whole meaning of those 100,000 words into one or two or three words. Anyone who thinks it easy will be disillusioned as soon as he tries it. It was too big a job even for Shakespeare and so he usually compromised by merely naming his play after the chief character.

So it is not strange that writers use the word "black" as a prevailing word of the moment in titling their books. By using something strange and unfamiliar they court unpopularity; by going with the stream their chances are materially increased.

Switzerland depends on other countries for its egg supply.

The city and country government of Denver, Col., is combined.

WEIGHED ONLY 98 POUNDS

Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cleveland, Ohio.—"After having my first baby, I lost weight, no matter what I did. Then a doctor told me I would be better if I had another baby, which I did. But I got worse, was always sickly and went down to 98 pounds. My neighbor told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it helped her very much, so I tried it. After taking four bottles, I weigh 116 pounds. It has just done wonders for me and I can do my housework now without one bit of trouble."—Mrs. M. RISSINGER, 10004 Nelson Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

If some good fairy should appear, and offer to grant your heart's desire, what would you choose? Wealth? It's a transient thing that brings its own cares. Happiness? It's an elusive thing which we keep by giving away. Health? That's the best gift. Health is riches that gold cannot buy and surely health is cause enough for happiness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be the good fairy who offers you better health.

Don't Fuss With Mustard Plasters!

Musterole Works Without the Blister—Faster, Quicker
Don't mix a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole.

Musterole is made of pure oil of mustard and other helpful ingredients, in the form of a white ointment. It takes the place of mustard plasters, and will not blister.

Musterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, tics, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

Vivian Abraham Are Oratorical Girls Is Planned by National Council

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Two forensic medals were awarded to two high school students Monday morning. The contest which was given to the school by Arthur Curt of this city and an alumnus of the high school, is awarded each year to the orator who ranks highest in the school. This year it went to Russel Rumenoff, who won first place at the inter-class contest which was held some time ago. He is entitled to keep it one year.

The other medal, which is awarded annually to the girl ranking highest in declamatory work, went to Miss Vivian Abraham, who won first place in the inter-class declamatory contest recently. The latter award was given to the school by last year's graduating class.

Both medals are beautiful gold awards. An effort is being made to have uniform requirements for the winning of each, chiefly that the winner shall consent to keep it during the balance of the school year and return it at that time. The medals would then be placed in a case, where they would be kept during the summer and the part of the school year prior to the inter-class contests, each medal bearing the names of all who had won them so far.

This school will enter two contestants in the district forensic contest which will be held Friday, April 23. They will be Russel Rumenoff in oratory, and Miss Dorothy Bentz in declamatory. Each who won second places at the contest which was held at Clintonville last Friday. The place of the next contest has not yet been decided upon.

FLOOD OF EMOTION BIG FEAT-URE OF IBANEZ FILM

It talks more than a flood to make a torrent—at least the kind of torrent audiences at the Elthe theater are now seeing, in the spectacular new Cosmopolitan production of "Ibanez." The torrent is there—a gigantic onrush of water that tears a village up by its foundation and spreads devastation in a mighty thrill—but that is not the real torrent in the story. The torrent, as the author, Vicente Blasco Ibanez, saw it, was in the maelstrom of human emotions that swept away destinies just as the mighty flood carried material things before it.

The new picture is a mighty thrill, and an enthralling drama that grips the very heartstrings. Wonderfully acted, gorgeously staged and costumed—it has more than that. It tells a powerful story in a new way—a way that leaves one gasping at its sheer originality.

The play tells of the life and loves of a Spanish opera star, whose one chance for love is ever snatched away like the cup of Tantalus. Through many cities she triumphs—she has riches and fame—everything but that one thing in life.

HAS TWO STARS
Ricardo Cortez plays the hero of the story as a young Spanish state-man a role for different from his usual Spanish parts in that he is more conservative—and at the end when he appears as himself at middle age
the illusion is striking and a revelation of hitherto undreamed of talent on the actor's part. Greta Garbo the famous Swedish star, is playing her first American role as the opera singer.
A gorgeous beauty she is also in emotional, actress of astounding activity, and her first vehicle assuredly a stellar place in American films.

FAMOUS NOVEL OF YOUTH

FUTURE BRIGHT FOR U.S. BUSINESS, C. OF C. TOLD

YEAR'S WORK REVIEWED BY CIVIC CLUB

Prosperity Built Up by Cooperation, Speaker Tells Appleton Men

America is going to enjoy a greater business in the future than it ever has before, John W. Van der Vries, chief manager of the north central division of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, told 100 or more persons who attended the annual banquet and meeting of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce at Hotel Northern Monday evening.

A constant improvement in the condition of business during the coming decades, due to the advantageous location of this country with the rest of the world, was predicted by Mr. Van der Vries. He granted that the course would be indented with periods of depression such as are associated with business cycles, but he prophesied that the upward trend would be quite steady and the indentations would not be sharp.

GOOD THINGS AHEAD

"Prosperity has placed us in a position where we can't help but enter better business as the years advance," he said. "We have an abundance of raw materials, a good supply of educated labor, and our financial system is superior to that of any other country in the world. With the automobile, the airplane and the radio, more will be opened up to us during the next two or three decades than has been since the beginning of mankind. Consequently the future possibilities of this country are unlimited."

Taking for his subject, What's It All About, the speaker outlined what he defined as the four functions of the chamber of commerce, considered in either a local or national sense.

They are: First, to save dollars and cents for every man, woman and child; second, to bring home to the average individual many matters which he doesn't believe of any value to him; third, to bring home to the average business man that problems, which, although it appears to be private, is more often in common with other individuals and other communities; fourth, to give its government the best assistance, and to bring home its particular town can offer.

WHAT C. C. DID

In reviewing the first function, Mr. Van der Vries quoted figures to show what the Chamber of Commerce of the United States has saved this country since the organization was completed 14 years ago. He pointed out that the chamber of commerce was responsible for the adoption of the budget system by the United States government which was put into effect three years ago, and said that it has resulted in an annual saving to the country of approximately $250,000,000. Figuring the population of this city at 22,000, Appleton has been saved a weekly federal tax of approximately $1,000, he added.

"Until 1907, the government was miles away from us," he said. "We elected our men to congress and as long as they did the few things we wanted them to do, nothing was said. So far as the actual working of the government was concerned we were in absolute ignorance."

"After the chamber was organized, the first referendum submitted by the organization was on the budget system. Members of the chamber, who were the leading business men of the country, believed that this huge business which the United States represented, should be run in a business-like fashion, and they set about to bring this change into effect."

"It took eight years to get the system adopted, but the chamber finally realized its purpose and it has proven its worth. It was not until the country's businessmen conceived the system and then pushed it strongly, that the idea was carried across."

OPEN TRADE ROUTES

The American merchant marine was taken as an example by the speaker in explaining the second function of the chamber, that of bringing home to the average individual many matters, which he doesn't believe to be of any particular value to himself. He showed that by referendums and other means, the chamber is bringing to members of the 1,125 chambers of commerce in the United States knowledge about the merchant marine which the great majority of these individuals otherwise never would receive.

Since the war, this country has opened trade routes with every country in the world, the speaker stated. American produce is carried to 476 ports in 115 countries and islands all over the world, which of course has increased our export business tremendously, he pointed out. He said that from a $1,000,000,000 trade in 1914, the 1924 trade had increased to $350,000,000,000, more than double the previous amount.

"Fifty per cent of this volume was agricultural products," he said. "When this fact is realized, it is clear that we all have a mighty big interest in the question of what happens to our surplus products. In an effort to solve this problem, the national chamber of commerce recently conducted a series of conferences with prominent business men throughout the United States, and the importance of the results was recognized by President Coolidge when he suggested to the last congress that they refer to the report of the chamber on the subject."

Thus, said the speaker, is only an example of the many matters of various nature which the chamber brings to the attention of its members.

HELP SOLVE PROBLEMS

The function of bringing home to the average business man problems which appear to be private and which often are in common with individuals and other communities, is an equally important function according to the speaker. Accepted methods of solving difficult problems are determined by the chamber and circulated among members for their own help, he showed.

"At the conclusion of the last war, the condition of industry and agriculture was quite different," the speaker declared. "When the war started, the farmer was told to produce as much as was possible, and he consequently spent all his time in producing and didn't give any thought to anything else. When the war came to an end, he found himself in a difficult position, and one in which he only now is beginning to recover from."

"Industries, on the other hand, were in a far different position. As conditions varied during the war, industries were engaged in a deep study of the various aspects of business, and when the war was completed and the country was over-taken with a period of depression, the majority of industries were able to cope with the many difficulties and survive the period. This is where the value of knowledge based on economic law came in good stead."

HELPS GOVERNMENT

That the chamber is giving its best assistance to the government has been proven in many ways, the speaker stated in explaining the fourth function of the organization. The international chamber of commerce was organized after the World War since which time it has placed Europe back on a firm basis again, he added.

FOLLOW ECONOMIC LAWS

"Three and one-half years after the war, Europe wasn't any further ahead

BRING SHATTUCK HERE TO EXAMINE PIANO STUDENTS

Arthur Shattuck, well known American concert pianist, will visit Lawrence Conservatory of Music on Tuesday afternoon to criticize a number of piano students from the studio of Miss Gladys Yves Brainerd. The students are candidates for pianistic distinction and their playing is in the nature of an examination. Mr. Shattuck is being brought here from New York at the expense of $25 per hour, and a special piano has been secured for the use of the students during the examination.

The students who will take part are: Gertrude Boyce, Elizabeth Church, Gladys Thompson, Joyce Wenzel, Katherine Kern, Violet Oiler, Norma Lock, Eleanor Jacobson, Marjorie Klaus, Henrietta Ralph, Helen Hearle, Hudson Bacon, Russell Hayton, Francis Proctor, Harold Jensen, and Professor James Mursell.

than it was at the end of the war, and it was then that the international chamber got busy," Mr. Van der Vries said. "We came to realize that the problems we were facing were economic, not political, and we proceeded to solve the difficulties according to economics."

"A conference was planned at Rome and 300 business men from the United States, led by Julius H. Barnes, attended. Thirty nations were represented at that conference, nations in which practically all colors and races were included, but at the end of a week all were in absolute agreement. The American delegation had decided on a means of settlement, and after the necessary interpretations had been made, no nation disputed the proposal. "The next meeting of the international chamber was held at Brussels last June. Europe, up to this time, had been hearing a lot of smooth talk from politicians that the United States would not hold Europe for its debts. The various countries were beginning to believe it, too, but when another American delegation attending the Brussels conference informed Europe that "the foundation of business was confidence and that the voice of the United States demanding payment of debts was representative of the feeling throughout the country, it was not long after before European countries began paying up."

"There isn't a problem that can't be solved, either in Appleton, or any other community or nation, as long as the game is played on the square. Play the game square and you will come out winner in the long run."

ANNOUNCE DIRECTORS

Announcement of the five persons elected to the board of directors was made by Joseph Koffend, Jr. The new board members are D. O. Kinsman, H. C. Humphrey, W. O. Thiede, A. H. Wickesberg, and J. L. Sensenbrenner.

Mr. Koffend, president of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, presided at the meeting. In reviewing the work of the past year, he stated it was his belief that the period had been a constructive one. He termed the two outstanding accomplishments of the year as the Better Cities contest and the unique dinners which the chamber sponsored during the past 12 months.

The function of the chamber of commerce is to seek for the prosperity, promotion and welfare of the community, according to President Koffend. The program, however, is one of a continuous nature, and one

BLUE DEBATERS WIN FINAL TILT

Defeat Pullman College in Debate Here Over Repeal of Prohibition Amendment

Dan Hardt, Neenah, and George Christensen, Oshkosh, won their last debate for Lawrence college when which cannot realize results in just one year, he pointed out.

"The chamber must build the community commercially, industrially and socially," Mr. Koffend said. "To accomplish this, we need not only the cooperation of the chamber members, but of the citizens of the community as well."

REVIEWS WORK

Work of the past year was reviewed briefly by Hugh G. Corbett, general secretary. He especially emphasized the cooperation which the chamber received from city officials in carrying out the program of the Better Cities contest, adding that although the city did not place as high as it expected, much had been learned which would be of benefit to the community in the future.

A joint meeting of the old and new directors will be held at the Conway hotel Wednesday evening, April 14. The old directors will retire, and the new directors will take over the work at this time.

Max Bubb, Milwaukee, vice president of the Allis-Chalmers company and a director of the national chamber of commerce, was unable to be present Monday evening.

they defeated the Washington State team from Pullman, Wash., at Lawrence Conservatory of Music Monday night. The unanimous decision of the judges gave Lawrence its second victory over the western school, the first being on the western trip which the Lawrence team made last year. The question was "The Eighteenth Amendment should be repealed" with Hardt and Christensen upholding the affirmative, while Edward Phinney and Dale Whitenach of the western team argued for the negative.

Hardt has never been defeated in a debate during his four years of work for Lawrence. Christensen has been in college debate for three years and has been manager of the debate team during the past year.

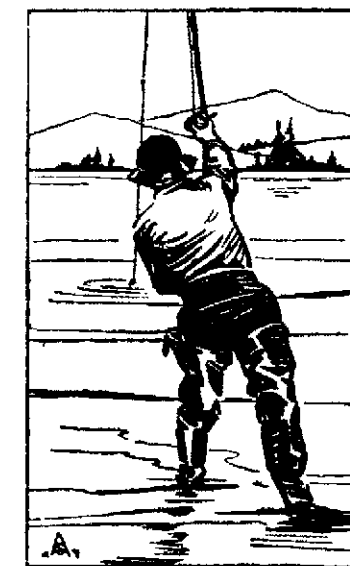

The two men from Washington State also are experienced debaters. Phinney has spent three years in platform work and Whitenach has been representing his school in oratory for the past two years.

L. V. Kress of Janesville was an Appleton visitor Tuesday.

WISCONSIN DEATHS

MRS. GEORGE LEISGANG
Black Creek—Funeral services will be held for Mrs. George Leisgang at 9 o'clock at the home and 9:30 at St. Mary church Wednesday morning. The Rev. J. Kedesky will conduct the services. Survivors are five daughters, three sons and 11 grandchildren. Interment will take place in the parish cemetery.

FOR GOITRE

There is just enough of the right kind of iodine in deep sea water to check and help reduce goitre and having beneficial action to the thyroid gland.

Try Ocean-O, a concentrated deep sea water with the excess of common salt removed.

It's a great blood, nerve and gland tonic because it supplies the entire system with just the vitalizing mineral elements it lacks. It builds you up. If it doesn't, get your money back. # the YELLOW STUB

by Ernest Lynn

BEGIN HERE TODAY

HENRY RAND, 35, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grafton. Police find a woman's handkerchief and the yellow stub of a theater ticket.

JIMMY RAND, his son, goes to Milwaukee, where the theater is. The stub is traced to a THOMAS FOGARTY, who says he gave it to OLGA MAYNARD, a cabaret singer.

Jimmy meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. Later he encounters Olga Maynard. She faints when she learns police want her for murder. Mary, out with SAMUEL CHURCH, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lift Olga into a taxi and misunderstands.

Olga tells police the stub and the handkerchief might have got into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder.

Jimmy receives several mysterious warnings to leave Milwaukee. He is followed one evening and escapes from his two shadowers after wrestling a blackjack from one of them. He tells POLICE LIEUTENANT O'DAY that it was a blackjack or something similar that caused his father's death.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XIX

"Sure. Who knows?" agreed O'Day. "But," he added hastily, "you're jumping at conclusions. I agreed that it was a blackjack or sandbag that was used on your father—God rest his soul—you're a little hasty in trying to put the two together."

O'Day rose. "I'm running along here," he said, "and I'm not going to keep you waiting. I'll be back in a few minutes. I'll be back in a few minutes. I'll be back in a few minutes."

Jimmy sat for a long time after O'Day's departure. His knees hunched up before him on the bed. A brown wrinkling his forehead. Then he jumped up, took some writing paper from a drawer and wrote a letter to Harry Colvin.

He wrote page after page describing in full the events of that exciting evening. "And not a word to the family," Barry wrote. "You know what they'd say if they found out. You might however, say something to Detective Mooney if you get the chance. He was one who said we were fools to believe Olga Maynard's story. This might give him a new slant."

The long, low sport model roadster belonging to Mr. Samuel Church came silently to a stop in front of the modest looking apartment building and Mr. Church stepped out. In the vestibule of the apartment he rang the bell opposite the name "Lowell."

Mrs. Lowell's welcome was radiant. "Good evening, Mr. Church." She stepped to one side as he came in the door. "Let me take your hat, and your coat—Mary has not finished dressing yet and you won't want to get indoors with your coat on. One takes cold so easily as it is. I told Mary to hurry. I hope she won't make you late for the concert."

"Thank you. We have plenty of time." His manner was easy and assured as he handed her his hat and removed his loose fitting black coat. He stood immaculate in his dinner clothes, his wavy, gray-tinted black hair sleek with pomade.

He drew a silver bound leather cigar case from his pocket as Mrs. Lowell returned from hanging up his coat and hat. "Mind if I smoke?" he smiled.

"Of course not, Mr. Church. I'd rather you would in fact. I like to see men smoke—especially cigars," she said as she finished lighting his. "It is so masculine and Mr. Lowell used to be so fond of them—but please sit down. Shall I tell Mary to hurry?"

"I find it rather pleasant waiting," he smiled. "You are comfortable here, aren't you?" He glanced around the living room.

Mrs. Lowell sighed. "We try to like it but it is rather trying this apartment life after so many years in a big home. Oh well, things of course have been different since Mr. Lowell died. It almost breaks my heart to see Mary work but she seems to like it. I'm afraid I'll never get used to it. There was a suspicion of tears in her voice.

Church smiled. "The modern girl

Truth Is Stranger Than Fiction

Do you like stories that grip the imagination, tug at the heart-strings, and leave you inspired by what you have read?

Do you like stories that touch life at every angle, that reveal the secret joys and sorrows, the temptations and struggles, the triumphs and defeats of people who really live?

Mrs. Lowell. And I'm not sure that I agree with her theories. I rather cling to the old-fashioned idea of woman's place being in the home and that sort of thing. This striving for equality and economic independence is all very well, but after all there are certain inevitable contacts the girl in business has to make that are not—well, I don't like to see it.

"And now, Mrs. Lowell, I'm taking the liberty of saying something that has been on my mind for some time. It is about Mary."

"Yes?" Mrs. Lowell was all eager attention.

"I love her. I want to marry her. Now just a minute, please. May I finish?" He waved away her interruption. "I can offer her and you too—a wonderful home. While I am not exactly a millionaire, still most people would call me wealthy."

"Yes, of course," breathed Mrs. Lowell, "very wealthy."

"And," he went on smoothly, "I think I, ah, hold a certain position in the community that cannot be bought with money."

He was on his feet, gesturing gracefully with his arms to add emphasis to his words. "Mrs. Lowell, all Mary has to do is say the word."

"Have you said anything to Mary?" Mrs. Lowell's voice fluttered.

"That is another thing I am old fashioned about, Mrs. Lowell. He bowed slightly. "I am speaking first to you. I have dropped an occasional hint which is only natural for a man in love. I had gathered that she was somewhat interested in a young man named—let me see—Rand."

"Oh, that?" She smiled deprecatingly. "I did my best to discourage that. They met in a rather romantic way and he was here a few times but that was all. She never mentions his name any more."

"These wise mothers!" he exclaimed softly. "It must have been—let us call it intuition—that led you to discourage that. I haven't had the opportunity to observe the young man very much, but the first time I saw him he was standing on the street with a notorious woman in his arms. Right in front of the Mayfair Hotel, with dozens of people passing."

"Brazen!" Mrs. Lowell exclaimed.

"Oh, both of them must have been drunk. There's no other way of accounting for it. Mary saw it, too. Perhaps that's why she hasn't mentioned his name since."

"Mary hasn't been quite herself lately," she admitted. "I wonder if she's been thinking about that—that Rand?"

"A little talk with her," he suggested, "might—"

"She shall have it."

"Without of course, bringing me into it. Things might be misunderstood, you know and I have a certain delicacy about suggesting—"

"I understand perfectly, Mr. Church. I think it quite noble of you to let me know."

"It was quite distasteful, I assure you, Mrs. Lowell."

"I know, I know. But there's Mary calling. Some last minute help with her dress I suppose. Excuse me. Along, Church smiled a self-satisfied smile. With his left hand he carefully flicked his cigar ashes into a nearby receiver. With his right he smoothed down his flawlessly combed hair. He walked over to the wall mirror and adjusted his black bow tie. Then he sat down and waited.

Mrs. Lowell in Mary's room said as she helped her daughter into her coat. "Mr. Church asked my permission tonight to propose to you."

"Mother?"

"Mother, don't talk like that. Did he say—"

He has wealth," Mrs. Lowell interrupted. "reimbursement position—everything a girl could ask. Not many girls get such a chance. If he says anything to you tonight I want you to think of what it means to me—to both of us. No more of this—this awful poverty. I don't think I could stand to go on with it."

She dabbed at her eyes with her handkerchief and left the room, and Mary, strangely white faced, stood staring out of the window for some time before she followed.

On the drive downtown and during the concert Church was attentively listening to Mary. He made no allusion to his conversation with her mother, but on the way home he quite casually brought up the topic.

"That," he said, with a graceful wave of the hand toward the imposing looking home they were passing, "is the kind of house you should be living in. You were born to things like that. There's no reason why you shouldn't have them."

Mary, biting her lips, said "I am happy where I am, Mr. Church."

"You say that because it isn't in you to be selfish. You think too much of others. Mary, and not enough of yourself. Think how wonderful it would be for your mother and you—a home like that."

"Mary," he continued impetuously, "I can give you all that and more. I love you and want you to marry me."

"Don't, don't," she protested, her face buried in her hands.

"I don't want your answer now, Mary. I want you to think it over. Will you?"

"Yes, I will. Please take me in."

In her room once more, she flung herself face down on the bed, still fully dressed. "Selfish!" she cried in a strangled voice. "Is that what I am—selfish?"

Through the open window came the purr of an automobile engine starting. It faded away in the distance.

In front of Jimmy Rand was a letter, the ink on it hardly dry. It began "Dear Mary."

Jimmy slowly read it through—several pages that had taken him hours to write. He read it again. Then he pushed his chair back from the table and slowly crumpled the letter in his hand.

PUPILS COMPETE IN MILK POSTER CONTEST

Outagamie-co school pupils will be asked to participate in a poster making contest calculated to advertise milk week May 3 to 8, it was stated Monday by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools.

Each county school is to hold its own contest the pupil working under the direction of the teacher. Posters are to be finished before May 3. Each school is to have a Parent-Teachers' association meeting Friday, May 7, and the posters are to be displayed there. Prior to that time they will be shown in public places.

Each school will judge its own posters and ribbon prizes will be awarded to the two best in each school.

ALPINE PASSES FAMOUS

The passes in the Alps mountains have long been famous because they were the gates to traffic between Italy and North Europe. The St. Bernard passes, due under the friendly protection of the monks but railroads have now been built to pass the great barrier by the tunnels of Mont Cenis in the West, St. Gothard in the center and the Simplon further East. On the southslope the Alps fall abruptly to the low plains of Lombardy.

Rising, he tore it into tiny fragments and threw them in the waste basket.

When you sell your home will Plaster help or hinder?

CLIMAX WALLS
of Everlasting Wood Mortar

NOBODY notices the plaster unless it is cracked! But if it is, the whole house suffers in the opinion of the prospective buyer, the defects conveying the impression of poor construction and rapid depreciation that has killed many a home sale.

To guard against this issue and to insure the utmost in enduring beauty and lasting value, experienced home builders, contractors and architects specify walls of Climax wood mortar.

Climax is plaster in its purest form combined for strength, elasticity and insulating qualities with finely divided wood fibre—applied to the wall undiluted by sand filler. It produces a wall that at once assures extreme resistance to fire, water, strain and the disintegrating effects of time.

Be particular when it comes to plaster—a small item but a big factor in home beauty. Specify "Walls of Climax wood Mortar."

To all who intend to build, our booklet "Walls of Everlasting Beauty" will prove extremely valuable. Write today.

"Drifting and Dreaming" — Fox Trot George Olsen and His Music

"Dreaming of a Castle in the Air" — Fox Trot
Jack Chapman and His Orchestra

Two fox trots with unusual features. The first number has a chorus vocal refrain, and, at one point, a spoken refrain, the orchestra continuing as "incidental" music. The companion has unusual uses of the deep saxophone and harmonies of an unconventional kind. "Drifting and Dreaming" is leisurely in tempo, as accords with its name, and besides the vocal features, there is a trumpet melody that is notable. The record is strong and full in volume, from the opening blare to the closing inverted chord. In "Castles in the Air," which opens with a staccato figure for woodwinds, the strings are freely used more freely, perhaps, than in the average fox trot. Both numbers are strongly rhythmic and both display plenty of orchestral coloring.

BLACKIE THE PONY

Nancy and Nick and the March Hare left Rubadub scrubbing up floor, and Mouse and his friend, the little Gray Mole, and started off to hunt up some more people to be spring-cleaned.

Almost the first person they saw was Blackie, the shaggy pony.

"Hello! Hello! Blackie was whinnying. 'Hello! My tail's caught in the barbed-wire fence and I can't move! Help!'

"For goodness sake, Blackie!" said the March Hare. "You make more noise than two pigs under a gate. Your tail wouldn't hurt you if you didn't keep pulling at it. Stand still and these children will soon get you untangled."

"Oh, thank you," said Blackie, pawing the ground. "That's the most convenient getting caught like this just as I was about to nibble that bunch of lovely new clover leaves there. It's only a few inches beyond my nose and it smells like peaches and cream."

Nancy and Nick soon untangled Blackie's long tail and the pony took a few steps toward the patch of sweet clover.

"Where's that clover now?" he whinnied more loudly than ever. "This old mane of mine hangs right in my eyes the minute I put my head down, the March wind blows it forty ways at once."

"My goodness, but you're in a cross humor today, Blackie!" said the March Hare. "What's wrong?"

Blackie shook his mane out of his eyes. "Nothing, except that this silly old mane and tail of mine are always getting me into trouble. I hate them!" he said. "I wish I could get them bobbed."

"Oh, ho! You do, do you?" laughed the March Hare. "Well, I'd say you needed a good bobbing all over. You look like a push-over that forgot to stop growing."

"I know, I'm perfectly ashamed of myself," said Blackie with a toss of his head. "But I heard Farmer Greenway say last winter that he wouldn't clip me, because the barn wasn't very warm and my hair could grow as long as it liked."

"Well, I guess it liked to grow pretty long," laughed Nancy. "You do look awfully funny, Blackie. You'd better let us take you to Rubadub, the fairman of Scrub-Up Land. He'll fix you."

"Oh, will he?" whinnied Blackie delightedly.

"Yes, sir! He will!" said Nick. "That boy right on top of me is one of you!" whinnied Blackie. "Well, start at once!"

So they all hopped on and pretty soon they were right in front of Rubadub's house in Scrub-Up Land.

"You don't want your mane and tail bobbed surely," prodded Rubadub when Blackie told him all the times he'd wanted done.

"Why not?" asked Blackie. "I like my mane and my tail to do as I please with 'em. I mean, aren't they?"

"But the flies! They'll soon be coming!" warned Mister Rubadub. "Then how will you scratch them off?"

"I'll let them if they bite me," said Blackie. "But go right ahead! What could poor Mister Rubadub do but obey?"

"There's not much room left to tell you, but there's enough to tell you that when the flies come they nearly drove poor Blackie crazy as he had no tail to switch them off with. And once a bee stung him."

By fall his tail had almost, but not quite, grown in again.

But the most interesting thing of all is that Farmer Greenway never found out who did it.

As I wrote that paragraph, Leslie, saying that both you and Paula Perier had come through purifying fires triumphant, I thought how silly I was to dream even for a moment of any great suffering connected with Leslie Hamilton Prescott. Why, my dear, everything in the world has been showered upon you — devoted parents, great luxury, love, admiration, beauty, health and wealth — these have been yours all your life. And yet—forgive me, Leslie—there is at times the same look in your eyes that I have found in Paula Perier's.

And I know that Paula Perier has starved almost all her life, physically, mentally, spiritually. She has told me enough about herself to let me understand that, like myself, only in her work, has she found great happiness.

But you! Ah, Leslie dear, how could you have ever had a starving heart or mind! Surely you never had a soul or brain that you could not fill with love, ideals and ideas, for the whole world has always been trying to give them to you.

Great Scott, Leslie, here I am writing a lot of stuff that you will probably laugh at. It's not a bit like me, is it? You who have known me almost all my life, will know that I'm early in it, I elected not to harbor a great love. Consequently I have been all this while cultivating my brain instead of my heart.

And yet, oh, my dear, my dear, my heart always beats faster and it is almost with tears of envy that I see Paula Perier and you and women like you. You have both of you something within you, something that you have arrived at, somehow, that I have always been trying to reach and never been able to.

Some day I hope either you or Paula will tell me how you get the thing that I have always wanted so much. There!

That's enough! It always makes me unhappy when I show anyone my heart.

Maggie Stumpson is really demonstrating to me every day that really after all I did not make any mistake in giving her another chance. You remember I took her from her father and she is now living with me. She is actually blossoming out now she's gotten out from under her father's thumb. You wouldn't know her!

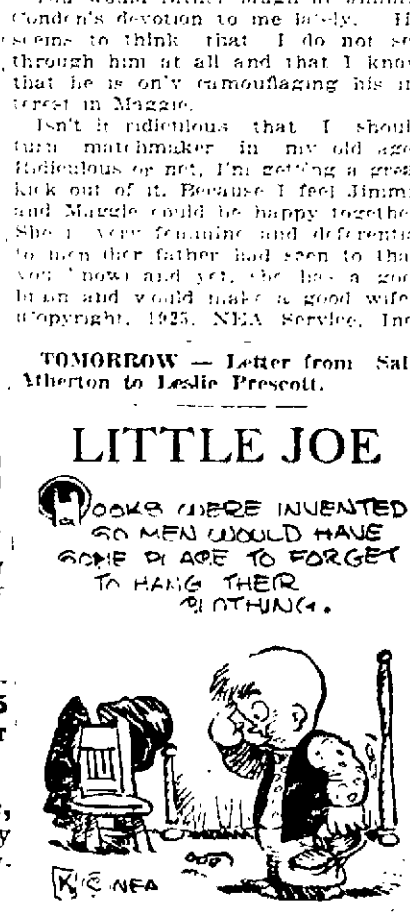

You would rather laugh at Jimmie Condon's devotion to me lately. He seems to think that I do not see through him at all and that I know that he is only camouflaging his interest in Maggie.

Isn't it ridiculous that I should turn mathmaker in my old age? Ridiculous or not, I'm getting a great kick out of it. Because I feel Jimmie and Maggie could be happy together. She is very feminine and devoted to men, her father had seen to that, you know and yet, she has a good brain and would make a good wife, wouldn't you?

P. NATALIE, PROCUE STAR, INVADES CITY THURSDAY

New York Pro Champion Here For Three-day 900 Point Match With Pindle

State Pocket Billiard Champ
Expects to Give Star Hard
Rub at Hotel Appleton

Thursday, Friday and Saturday are the big days in local cue circles for on these three days, P. Natalie, New York state pro pocket billiard champion, who entertained Appleton billiard fans with a flashy exhibition here a short time ago when he beat Harold Pindle of this city, state titlist, will return for a 900-point match with the local man. The match will take three days starting Thursday afternoon, a block of 125 points being played each afternoon and each evening. The games will be played in the large dining room of the Hotel Appleton which will accommodate the crowds expected.

Pindle is undisputed state pocket billiard champ having defended his title without a loss since acquiring it a few years ago. He is an excellent shot and when in form will make any pro in the country step to win. He favors the 900-point match rather than 300 and expects to make Natalie step over the longer route.

Natalie needs no introduction here since his defeat of Pindle, 900-197. However, he is considered one of the best players in America, ranking in his youth, with Frank Taberski, present champ and Ralph Greenleaf.

CAMPUS BOXER

ADDISON WARREN
He's captain of the University of North Carolina boxing team and one of its greatest pugs. Warren recently won the heavyweight title in the A. A. U. national junior tournament at Philadelphia. Prior to that he capped the championship of the South Atlantic division. Crayton Rowe, coach of the squad, sees a future great in the big fellow.

WEBER, FRIES LEAD ELK ALLEY DOUBLES

With 33 pair of double bowlers having shot their games in the Elk alley pin meet, Weber and Fries lead the van with a 1185 mark. It is expected that several pairs will top this mark before the meet closes. A number of single games have been shot in the tourney but no real high marks have been chalked up, 511 being top score to date. The eight high double teams follow:

Weber-Fries, 1185; Brandt-Evans, 1182; Weisgerber-Koletzke, 1170; Bergstrom-Muench, 116.; O'Keefe-Weisgerber, 1167; Weisgerber-Spear, 1157; Johnston-O'Keefe, 1149; Brandt-Ward, 1116.

35 GRIDDERS WORK ON COLUMBIA FIELD

New York —(P)—Thirty-five men are taking part in spring football practice at Columbia University, under Charles Crowley, head coach. The first session was held Monday.

Capt-elect William J. Madden and Myron J. Sesit, half backs are the only veterans indulging in these workouts which will last three weeks.

BARON MAY WEAR HAT IN PRESENCE OF KING

London —(P)—Michael Constantine de Courcy, Baron Kingsale, is the only man in the United Kingdom who may, if he wishes, keep on his hat in the presence of the King.

The peer enjoys the curious privilege by virtue of an hereditary prerogative granted to Sir John de Courcy in the reign of King John, for continuing Ulster. History records that this privilege has been exercised five times, the last occasion being 1859 when John de Courcy, successor to Gerald, Lord Kingsale, stood with his head covered in the presence of Queen Victoria.

MOTHER, TOTS RUN DOWN

Martinsville, Ind.—An unusual accident occurred here recently when Dr. C. H. White came upon Mrs. Lou Whitely, her daughter Inez and son Johnson asleep in the road. His machine struck them. He brought them to a hospital here. The mother had started to walk to another town and after walking all day became tired and stopped to rest, she said.

New Orleans —(P)—Pat Moran, New Orleans, defeated Rocky Kansas, lightweight champion (10) non-title.

Wichita—Young Strubling, Georgia, beat Chuck Buns, Texas (10)

Pittsburg—George Levine, Brooklyn, won from Jack Zivie, Pittsburg (10.)

HELPFUL HINTS GOLFING STARS

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH GOLFERS' MAGAZINE, CHICAGO.

BOBBY CRICKSHANK—PLAYING THE SHORT ONES.

If the ball is sunk in the sand, use a niblick because it has a sharp blade and cuts through the sand easily. Tighten the grip as the club head approaches the ball on the down swing.

If the ball lies clean on the sand, in iron or jigger should be used, or even a spoon, if the lie and distance warrant. The sand may be slightly moved by the sole of the club or the ball may be hit cleanly. When playing in sand always make sure that the feet are firmly planted. Otherwise, the power of the blow will be lessened. I always dig my heels into the sand until they are firmly set.

A firm stance, steady body, steady head, and elbows held well into the body, will always aid greatly in the short game. A player should make up his mind as to the distance of the shot and decide definitely which club is best to use. If it is a mashie-iron, mashie-niblick, or mashie shot to the green, he should select a point on, or near, the green to play for.

BLUE TRACKMEN GET 1ST OUTDOOR WORK

Lawrence college track prospects for 1926 got their first touch of outdoor work Monday afternoon when Coach A. C. Denny gave his men a short workout on Whiting field. Though the air was a trifle chilly the boys went through some snappy work and showed the effects of their intensive indoor work during the cold spell. The team will work outside from now on, Blue coaches said.

BLUE TANK STARS IN TWO CONTESTS

Undeclared Collegians Hit
Green Bay, Fondy in First
Two Out-of-town Meets

Lawrence college swimmers, undefeated this season, will participate in their first two out-of-town tank matches this month when they meet the Fond du Lac and Green Bay Y. M. C. A. fish in the Bay and Fondy tanks. Lawrence defeated both squads here, squeezing out a one-point win over the classy Fondy tankmen. However, the Blues were much stronger at that time as Rich, one of the best swimmers, ever to grace a Lawrence suit, was in school. He won a number of points in the Fondy meet.

The meet with the Green Bay squad is scheduled for Friday evening, April 16, and Fondy will be hosts to Coach Don Gebhardt's boys on Tuesday, April 26. Blue tankers who will make the trip include Colvin, Zuehlke, Glinkosky, Dreher, At-risk and Aderhold.

CARD DISTANCE STAR IN RELAYS

Chapman, Big Ten Two-mile
Champ, To Run in Penn Games on April 23-24

Philadelphia —(P)—Five western conference teams will be among the College athletes competing in the Pennsylvania Relay Carnival April 23 and 24.

Lowt, indoor conference title holder, Chicago, Michigan, Ohio State and Wisconsin have all entered teams in the relay events, and in special contests.

Ohio leads with the number of entries, 35. Dauber, Iowa, conference indoor shot put champion, will be here and also Chapman, Wisconsin, who holds the western two mile championship. Chicago's mile team is composed of Cusack and Koenwein, football stars, Beall and Science.

Colleges from the Pacific coast, Western conference non-conference teams in the east and a number from the south, will compete.

POST-CRESCENT PIN CREW ROLLS CHILTON

The Post-Crescent Specials, bowling squad, consisting of five of the best pinmen in Appleton, will invade Chilton Wednesday evening for a battle with the Chilton Specials. Members of the local maple crew are E. Weiss, A. Jimos, N. Brauer, W. Groth and another man to be selected.

Milwaukee—Harry Kuhn, Milwaukee scored a technical knockout over Rusty Jones, St. Paul (two.) Mike Cianciolo, Milwaukee, outpointed My Sullivan, St. Paul. (4.)

CATLIN HOPES TO START ON SPRING PRACTICES SOON

Zussman, Boettcher, Stark Premo Lost to Blue Gridders for 1926 Season

Spring grid practice for Lawrence college football men will begin as soon as Coach Mark Catlin can persuade Old Man Winter to clear out and give ground a chance to dry. Four vets of the 1925 squad will be lost to the team, but plenty of material is on hand to fill the positions. The quarterback job may be the hardest to fill with both Zussman, vet of four seasons, and Dillett, 1925 frosh pilot, out of school but Bloomer played the position part of last year and two other halfback candidates can be used to run the squad if necessary. Other men who have donned the Blue suits are Boettcher, fullback, end and guard; and Stark, tackle.

In the backfield Catlin will have Briesse, 1925 captain, Bloomer, Heide-man, the flashy Nason, Nobles, all lettermen, and Courtney, Appleton and Barfell, Jefferson bonecrusher, the most promising of last fall's frosh crop. The center berth will be a fight between Hipske, vet of two years, and Bleier, frosh pivot man. One of these men may be used at another line job if the Blues are weak at guard or tackle.

The end berths will be taken in charge by Ashman and Steensland, each of whom have had one year of work and Bayer, reserve end of two year's ago, who played a regular berth last year. Coming up from the frosh will be Hillman, old Appleton high man, and Hilton of Antigo, neat punt man, and Jessup, Marshfield giant, a frosh,

HUGGINS ROOK MADE GOOD MARK IN 1925

Chicago — Mykes Thomas, rookie hurler with the Yankees this spring, hung up a nifty record with Toronto in the International League last season.

Thomas won 23 games and lost but eight. He finished second in the won-and-lost column. In effectiveness he also landed second, allowing 2.515 earned runs per fractas.

Thomas has been showing to good advantage in the spring training camp of the Huggins entourage and appears to have won a regular berth.

FONDY HIGHS ENTER TEAM IN TRACK MEET

Fond du Lac high school track team, the only one of eight valley conference squads which did not participate in the conference meet sponsored by Lawrence college in Appleton last year, has decided to enter the competition this year. It was announced at the Fountain city. The meet this year will include every team in the loop due to Fondy's decision. The Frothmen are expected to furnish their rivals plenty of competition and they will go to the state meet at Madison if the showing in the local meet warrants it.

probably will be seen at a tackle position.

At guards will be Capt. Council, all-midwest man, and Olt and Weinkauff, alternates last year. One of the men also may try for a tackle berth.

Catlin expects about thirty men out for the first practice, although a good share of his men are now running around in track suits.

SIX TEAMS ARE ENTERED IN "Y" NETBALL GAMES

Neenah, Menasha, Kimberly,
Symco, Manawa, Appleton
Reported Ready to Go

With the receipt of three entry blanks on Monday, the number of entrants in the Y. M. C. A. district volleyball tournament which will be held in Appleton on Saturday was swelled to six with prospects of at least two more teams entering before Thursday. Team's now entered are Cub Buck's Buick Sixes of Neenah, Menasha, Kimberly-Clark Co., of Kimberly; Manawa, Appleton Pick-ups, and the Symco Cheesemakers. Prospective entries are Green Bay, Kaukauna and possibly Oconto. The St. Mark Mens' club of Oconto has written for information on the meet and may enter a squad.

Members of the tourney committee who will work out the schedule, officials and awards this week are Guy Barlow, chairman, F. E. Schlitz, W. S. Patterson and A. C. Remley. If six teams enter the meet a round-robin schedule will be used while if there are eight entries a double elimination system will be in force. No team will be eliminated until it has lost two battles. The Appleton team which annexed second place in the state meet last year will not be allowed to enter the 1926 district tourney.

Several well-known netball stars will compete in the tourney, entry lists show. Kimberly has a veteran team which won the meet last year; Manawa and Symco are in the same class as are Neenah, Menasha and Appleton. Buck's Buicks include such younger stars as George "Nig"

APPLETON TEAM PLAYS IN EAGLE DIAMOND LEAGUE

Menasha, Neenah, Oshkosh,
Appleton Aeries in Valley
Loop Starting May 16

Aeries from Oshkosh, Neenah, Menasha and Appleton will enter baseball teams in the first Fox River Valley diamond loop of the Eagle lodge which will be started this summer according to plans made at the organization meeting held Monday evening at Menasha. Steve Kolaschinski, Menasha, was named president of the loop; Harry Koretz of Neenah, secretary and M. Weinand of Oshkosh, treasurer. A constitution and by-laws were drawn up and plans were made to start the loop play on May 16.

Each team will consist solely of Eagles and each will pay its own traveling expenses to the other cities. As the loop is largely a trial this year for future Eagle ball leagues, it was decided to use a short schedule. Each team will meet the others three times, playing three rounds. Games will be played on Sundays except on holidays which scratches Decoration day and the Fourth of July from the card.

League play is scheduled to start Sunday, May 16 and Sunday, Aug. 22. Clarence Currie represented Appleton at the organization meeting.

Christoph, Neenah high coach and former Lawrence athlete, "Ole" Jorgensen Roosevelt high coach and old LaCrosse Normal star, Edgar Jones and Cub himself, Ossie Cooke, old Blue all-around athlete, is sure to be in the K-C lineup.

P.A.

pippin pipe
tobacco

THOSE fellows who get so much fun out of a pipe—don't envy them . . . emulate them! Get yourself a jimmy-pipe and a tidy red tin of Prince Albert. That's what they did, and look at them. Wearing smiles a mile wide. Puffing away on good old P. A. and happy as ducklings in their first rain-storm.

There's no trick about it . . . no deep, dark secret. P. A. is pippin pipe tobacco, made for pleasure and lots of it. Prince Albert is mellow as moonlight on a silent summer sea. Fragrant as a breeze that filters through apple-blossoms. Cool and sweet in a way that spells comfort to a pipe-smoker.

To make sure that you are not missing the full enjoyment of your pipe, go to the nearest tobacco shop and tell the man you want a tidy red tin of Prince Albert. He knows of hundreds of men that have found the enjoyment that's waiting for you. There's a revelation coming to you with a pipe—and P. A.

PRINCE ALBERT

—no other tobacco is like it!

Ninety-One Reasons Why You Should Read Classified Ads

There are ninety-one different classifications in the Post-Crescent A-B-C Classified Section, each one of which presents a different kind of information--and each one of which constitutes a reason why you should glance through this perfect catalogue of opportunity each day.

It is unreasonable for you to expect that each classification will hold profitable information for you individually--but you want to remember that you can't tell where your own opportunity lies until you glance through this complete list of opportunities.

There is something for everybody. One classification will seem to be made just for you alone, while another will exactly meet the needs of someone else.

And there's one other mighty important point to remember. It's uncommonly easy to skim the cream from this section. A glance will do it. The perfect indexing takes care of this part of the matter.

Read it and heed it every day!

5-YEAR-OLD CHILD IS KNOCKED DOWN BY TRUCK

Apparently not hearing the driver's shouted warning, Jerome Hoffman, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Hoffman, 523 W. Prospect-ay, ran into the street, at the corner of W. Fifth and S. Cherry-st. and collided with the rear end of a Haug and Son Co. coal truck and was knocked to the pavement and severely bruised about the head Tuesday noon.

The truck was driven by Henry Jennerjohn, 521 N. Lowe-st, who took the child to St. Elizabeth hospital. His injuries are not serious, it is said. Miss Rose Helm, teacher of the Third ward kindergarten where the little boy was attending, said that the children were always escorted across the street by the teacher at the time of dismissal, but that Jerome was waiting for an older brother who attends the first grade and consequently was not with the other children. Jennerjohn said the youngster started across the street to meet his brother and he called to him but the boy did not hear him.

LEGION CAMP TO OPEN THIS WEEK

Preparo* to Enroll 50 Convalescent Was Veterans Immediately at Rehabilitation Camp

Camp American Legion, the convalescent camp at Tomahawk Lake, Wisconsin, will open for the 1926 season on Thursday, according to word received here from Mr. and Mrs. George Merkel, former Appleton residents, who are in charge of the institution. It was planned to have the opening on April 1, but the extremely late spring made it necessary to postpone the opening.

Plans have been made for enrolling 50 convalescent veterans in the camp immediately. Accommodations have been provided for 100 former soldiers. Only veterans who have applied to the state service officer, James P. Burns, in Milwaukee will be admitted to the camp. Tomahawk Lake project is for convalescent veterans only and not for any contagious disease cases.

Several Appleton Legionnaires are planning to attend a celebration on Flag Day, June 14, at Camp American Legion to observe the first anniversary of the establishing of the camp. Last year L. Hugo Keller then state commander of the American Legion, presided at the camp dedication ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Merkel have spent the entire winter at the camp. They have made the home a cottage which the state department of the American Legion constructed especially for their use.

DEATHS

Many Motors and Specialty Shares Touch Bottom Prices

New York—(AP)—Renewed selling of the motor shares and nervousness over the outlook for the latest bumper crop continued to depress the stock market as trading was resumed Tuesday. Hudson, General Motors, Pierce Arrow preferred and other issues in this group were driven down further, some of them to new low levels for the year, while DuPont and Motrony Stores "B" both broke four points on initial sales.

Extension of harsh activities in new quarters brought sharp reactions throughout the list and carried various motor and specialty shares to 1926 bottom prices. In the face of a heavy March output, fears were expressed that automobile production schedules could not be maintained through the second quarter and bear traders continued to hammer away until short covering led recoveries in general, and Hudson and Nash Motors. Meanwhile, the selling movement was widened elsewhere and early declines of one to four points were registered by Remington Typewriter, South Bend, Rice Sugar, Chapman Continental Corp., American radiator, International Paper and Savage Arms. Rail shares, however, moved up under the leadership of Delaware and Hudson, Atlantic Coast line and Chesapeake and Ohio with Pullman, General Electric, United States Rubber and a few others showing a rallying tendency. Foreign exchange opened firm with demand offering quoted at $1.55 1/2.

Effective buying contrasted with the break selling of many shares throughout the forenoon. A few shares, however, began to yield toward middle when United States Steel got down to 13 1/2 and equipments turned weak. Local fractions were buoyant but other public utilities were heavy. Specialty Philadelphia Company and Standard Oil and Electric, Interboro Road Trunk advanced five points. Manhattan medical guaranteed three and Third Avenue Gas, General Electric, better issues, 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 broke.

257 1/2 to 258 1/2 Central dropped 15 points marking up of the general rally for rail loans to 5 per cent increased the supply of stocks.

The closing was firm. Total sale, approximately 1,100,000 shares.

ARREST MAN ON TWO YEAR OLD CHARGE

Julius H. Splitter, 1626 E. John-st, is in county jail here in default of $500 bail following arraignment in court Monday on a charge of issuing a worthless check to the Frank J. Kercher Co., Manitowish, almost two years ago. Splitter is accused of giving a check for $182.63 without having sufficient funds in the bank to cover it.

Police said arrest had been delayed in the expectation that Splitter would settle for the check. Splitter declared in court Monday that he had nothing to say about the matter and would say nothing until after he consulted his attorney. Judge Berg fixed the bail at $500 and remanded him to the custody of the sheriff. His hearing was set for April 22.

Many Motors and Specialty Shares Touch Bottom Prices

New York—(AP)—Renewed selling of the motor shares and nervousness over the outlook for the latest bumper crop continued to depress the stock market as trading was resumed Tuesday. Hudson, General Motors, Pierce Arrow preferred and other issues in this group were driven down further, some of them to new low levels for the year, while DuPont and Motrony Stores "B" both broke four points on initial sales.

Extension of harsh activities in new quarters brought sharp reactions throughout the list and carried various motor and specialty shares to 1926 bottom prices. In the face of a heavy March output, fears were expressed that automobile production schedules could not be maintained through the second quarter and bear traders continued to hammer away until short covering led recoveries in general, and Hudson and Nash Motors. Meanwhile, the selling movement was widened elsewhere and early declines of one to four points were registered by Remington Typewriter, South Bend, Rice Sugar, Chapman Continental Corp., American radiator, International Paper and Savage Arms. Rail shares, however, moved up under the leadership of Delaware and Hudson, Atlantic Coast line and Chesapeake and Ohio with Pullman, General Electric, United States Rubber and a few others showing a rallying tendency. Foreign exchange opened firm with demand offering quoted at $1.55 1/2.

Effective buying contrasted with the break selling of many shares throughout the forenoon. A few shares, however, began to yield toward middle when United States Steel got down to 13 1/2 and equipments turned weak. Local fractions were buoyant but other public utilities were heavy. Specialty Philadelphia Company and Standard Oil and Electric, Interboro Road Trunk advanced five points. Manhattan medical guaranteed three and Third Avenue Gas, General Electric, better issues, 1 1/2 to 2 1/

MORAL VIRTUES GUIDES TO GOOD LIVES, ROSS SAYS

Can't Make Good Citizens by Teaching Set of Habits to Boys and Girls

"Moral virtues such as love, kindness, helpfulness, and faith are not merely matters of good taste—they are absolutely essential to human welfare and modern social existence. Dr. Edward Ross, internationally known sociologist of the University of Wisconsin, declared in an address on How We May Use Our Education to Make Good Boys and Girls delivered at a joint meeting of the Roosevelt and First ward Parent Teachers' Association Monday evening at the senior high school auditorium. The speaker was introduced by Dr. A. A. Trever, professor of European history at Lawrence college.

Dr. Ross said sociologists generally agree that there can be no successful group of society life unless the members cooperate for the welfare of one another and faithfully obey the laws of the group. He mentioned three policies quite extensively practiced to improve and develop better children, but which he said were useless for the most part in real character building among the young people. They were the development of a certain set of habits, the exercising of iron clad authority over the children's actions, and the constant threat of the day of judgment or the fear of purgatory as a check to make people lead an upright and exemplary life.

TEACHING HABITS

Dr. Ross pointed out that many parents sought to drill into their children year after year an elaborate set of age old respected habits and traditions in an effort to have the young people retain these habits throughout life. He said that although there were a few essential habits which every child should acquire, the storing up of a vast lot of traditional habits and customs would be useful only if people lived in a static and unchanging state of society. The speaker showed that society in the world of today was more dynamic and swift than at any other time in history and that it would be futile to try to imbed a set of age old traditions and customs in a child which should be expected to serve him throughout the remainder of life when society and the customs of men are changing so rapidly.

In speaking of the doctrine of absolute and unquestioned authority and obedience as a means for improving the boys and girls of today, the speaker said that such a method would never solve the problem of building character in young people. Americans are exceedingly self-willed, and resent being told what to do when the instruction comes in the form of a command, he said and illustrated by declaring that a sign bearing the single word "Please" is much more effective than one which has the command "Keep off the Grass" written on it. The former appeals to one's conscience and common sense while the latter immediately stirs resentment by its show of absolute authority and command.

FEAR OF PURGATORY

The doctrine of a literal purgatory was worked strenuously in the Middle Ages and in comparatively recent times in trying to make people better, but the idea has been largely discarded now and the result shows that people probably are better for it, Dr. Ross said. People of a few generations back may have seemed more pious outwardly, but the business standards and practices of the modern day are certainly much higher than those of a few score years ago.

Speaking on the positive side of the question of character building in children, Dr. Ross said that one of the most essential things in developing character in boys and girls was life experience. A boy or girl will never make a great man or woman because of something which is said to them or some eloquent passage which is read to them, but they must have the experience.

"To properly fit young people for society they must be members of society themselves," continued Prof. Ross. Every child should be a member of some group, class or organization. Dr. Ross said that the value of competitive games among children and others, to lose a contest and not have come to realize the value of the game, is much less than the value of organized competitive team work. The sociologist stressed the importance of character building, observing that only in the last 25 years people have come to realize the value of the game, is much less than the value of organized competitive team work. the victory modestly instead of crowing and gloating over it are serious tests which put quite a strain on the young person's natural inclinations. Times but such tests, successfully used will add a wealth of character to a speaker declared.

NEED TEAM WORK

Dr. Ross said it was largely the poor sportsmanship of South American political leaders which kept many of the countries of that continent in political turmoil and revolution because as soon as one party is defeated in election the leaders immediately take up arms against the party in power. That team work is far superior to personal competition was partly illustrated by a group effort in character building, observing that only in the last 25 years people have come to realize the value of the game, is much less than the value of organized competitive team work.

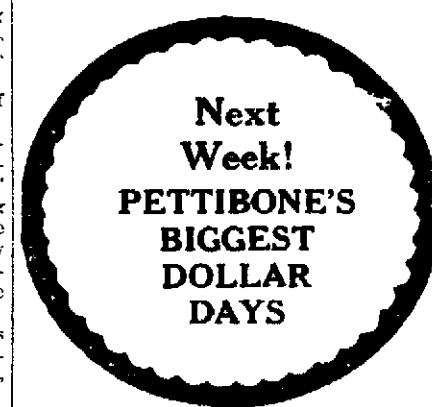

dramatic clubs and the school publication. Boys and girls may associate with great persons by reading their autobiographies, biographies, and their writings, said Dr. Ross. To put an abstract proposition before a child that he will do the right thing and lead the right kind of a life is not appealing and will have little effect, but let that child read the life of some exemplary personality such as Abraham Lincoln and the desired result will be obtained. The hearts of young people from 12 to 14 years old should be inspired by reading the lives of great historic personalities. At the age of 14 the young person should be given a little sociology to better acquaint him with what social and community life implies and the part he has to play in this social life.

In emphasizing the importance of protecting children against the evil influences seeking to drag them down

Dr. Ross spoke specifically of the old time saloon and the trashy and licentious motion picture. He said that prohibition had been brought on by the shameful way in which saloons were being conducted and the thirst for liquor they sought to create among the young people. "Whatever happens to prohibition I don't believe people will ever again stand for an institution like the old saloon getting hold of the lives of their boys," he said. "Religion is the thing that universalizes our promises to be kind, helpful and loving toward one another," said the speaker. "It is the thing which gives a long reach to these moral virtues. Religion is not chiefly a day of judgment but the most complete conception of what we are here for."

After the address the meeting was turned over to an open forum discussion and Dr. Ross answered numerous questions.

Miss Tess Gloudemons of Little Chute left for Milwaukee Tuesday where she has accepted a position as stenographer.
